Root And the Philippines.

A spirit of inquiry is being awakened in congress which, let us hope, will bring to light some things that have been hidden and that the American people have a right to know. After the house of representatives had listened Monday to a scathing and merited denunciation of the treaties practiced in Samar by order of a general officer, as that officer himself admits, Representative Budleson of Texas introduced a resolution calling on the secretary of war for information as to whether General Smith's order relative to the war in Samar was based on orders issued from Washington and requesting the transmission of all orders issued from Washington relative to the insurrection in Samar.

Representative Conroy of Massachusetts introduced a resolution of inquiry, but somewhat more comprehensive, perhaps, asking whether General Smith issued his kill-and-burn order on his own responsibility.

Let us hope that the house will go beyond asking the secretary of war to impart information. It is not so certain that the information which is greatly to be desired can be obtained from the present secretary of war. There is reason to think that no general in the Philippines would take upon himself the responsibility of ordering his subordinates to "kill and burn," to kill all males above 10 years of age and to make a populous island howling wilderness.

Some of the admirers of Secretary Root have been telling the public about the great exploits of their hero in the magazines. One of the things they have learned from these sources is that practically everything insular is run through a bureau of the war department which is presided over by a lieutenant colonel.

Here is one of the things the people have a right to know about: it is one of the things they ought to insist on knowing about.

It is true that all the plans are made in the war department for the government of some ten millions of people and that all military orders respecting these people issue from a man in the war department over whom is not a general but a lieutenant colonel presides the people cannot see the fact too soon. If it is true that the butcher orders issue from a bureau we may depend on it that the fact is not going to be disclosed to the present secretary of war.

The house must do more than ask the present secretary for information. It must go into a thorough investigation and find out who is running the military government in the Philippines and what that despot is doing to the people. It is true that the fact is not going to be disclosed to the present secretary of war.

It is gratifying to know that the able arraignment of the massacre in Samar was made by an ardent supporter of the policy of extermination and that he was applauded by a few Republican supporters of the policy.

It is evidence that the extermination is not approved by expansion. It is a welcome indication that the policy can be secured in one house at least for a searching investigation into the doings in the Philippines which have been so long hidden from the American people.

FATHER OF ARBOR DAY.

School Day Stories of the Late Julius Sterling Morton.
 On the yellow page of a children's album which belonged to the late Julius Sterling Morton's mother appears the story of the late Julius Sterling Morton written with fingers a little unsteady in the use of pen and ink, as Julius Sterling Morton inscribed in quite a masterful manner by the ten-year-old boy.

All the young people of the United States know about Arbor day and what a delightful experience it is to have the holiday, to speak pieces and plant trees and put the flag up to wave over the schoolhouse, and now I am going to tell some stories about the youth in the originator of Arbor day, says Louise I. Baker in the Washington News.

Julius Sterling Morton was born on April 22, 1832, at Adams, Jefferson county, N. Y., his father, Julius Dewey Morton, being twenty-four and his mother, Emeline Sterling Morton, twenty years of age. Before the baby was three years old the family removed to Monroe, and it was at that place the greater part of his boyhood was spent. "He was the best little boy I ever knew," says his cousin, "Aunt Betsy," her kind face beaming with pleasure. "He obeyed his mother implicitly. Once for some childish misdemeanor he was given permission to leave it. Then the child's mother went from the room, and the mischievous young Sterling's uncle set his wits to work to make their nephew do better. They begged, they coaxed, they offered bribes, spoke enthusiastically of the wonderful things to be seen out of doors and ran to the window to watch the 'strange people' passing, but their efforts were all in vain, as the dear little fellow, with a faraway look in his eyes and his lips closed firmly, remained in his chair and refused to be tempted."

Sterling's uncle, Joe, aged sixteen, was especially fond of amusing himself at his small nephew's expense. He entered the room one evening when the boy was kneeling by his mother repeating his nightly prayers, and not noticing the devout attitude, made a teasing remark. Whereupon Sterling, who was just saying with great solemnity, "I pray thee," exclaimed, "Excuse me, Lord," and, jumping up, seized the first thing he could find, which happened to be a cat, and threw it forcibly at his uncle. Then he knelt again and continued his prayer as devoutly as if there had been no interruption.

Three-year-old Sterling was always adding something original to the prayers his mother taught him and astonished her very much on one occasion by closing the petition that his father, absent on a journey, might be brought home safely with these words, emphatically spoken: "And please give him good coffee while he's gone."

LENT BOOKS TO CARNEGIE.

Ironmaster Will Erect a Statue to Colonel Anderson.

Colonel James Anderson, Allegheny's first ironmaster, will have a statue erected in his honor, says a special dispatch from Pittsburgh to the New York World. It was in 1833 that Colonel Anderson built his mansion in Allegheny and placed 400 books in his library. He invited the working boys to come and borrow books, which he loaned out in two weeks' stretches. Andrew Carnegie was among the readers, and so was Henry C. Phipps, his partner. Mr. Carnegie recently gave Chester French, the sculptor, an order to design a monument to cost $50,000 to Colonel Anderson.

This design has been placed in the Allegheny library, and arrangements will be made for the erection of the statue. It was this act of Colonel Anderson, Mr. Carnegie said, that made him resolve if he should ever have surplus wealth to devote it to the extension of free libraries.

The Lady Diplomat.

We have grown accustomed to lady doctors, lady dentists, lady barbers and lady advocates, but we never expected to hear of the lady diplomat. She has arrived, however, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. M. Deleasse recently appointed Mlle. Jeanne de Villeneuve secretary to the French consulate general in New York. This is believed to be the first time a woman has received an appointment in the diplomatic service.

A British Triumph.

One of our trade secrets has remained undeciphered by the Americans—viz. how to produce xylene pingpong balls absolutely round. (English Daily Paper.) While the Yankees are stealing our trade by degrees and are boasting of swamping us out as they please, it is a comfort to hear that in one little sphere our bright old country is holding her own. By the help of a secret to others unknown, they may capture our markets for iron and steel. They may swallow our ships in a Moroccan deal. They may show us how rotten our lead is in cotton. They may send us their linen, their hemp and their shoes. And their striking machines they may force us to use.

They may keep us in maize and may flood us with wheat. They may beat our poor farmers with fruit or with meat. For, indeed, it's tremendous. What treasures they send us. And yet we have beaten them clean out in a way I extol in this jubilant rhyme. Let our principal industries totter and fall. For the world is well lost for a celluloid ball. And our flag it shall wave O'er the free and the brave Just as long as we guard as a secret profound How it is we can turn table tennis balls round!—London Chronicle.

HOW IT'S BACKED.

Reliability is Expressed in Newark Endorsement.

What we want is some endorsement of the people you know. That is what we want for Newark people. That is what follows here.

Such an endorsement can be had from the following statement from Mrs. B. J. Baker, 216 North Fifth st., who has been a long time my back was affected, and I had a heavy backache, which made me unable to do my work. Pain across the small of my back was so acute that I was hardly able to move around and a distressing and annoying urinary ailment accompanied it. A friend of mine, who, by using Doan's Kidney Pills, had been cured of backache, advised me to try them. I took the advice and obtained a box at Crayton's drug store. First the kidneys were stimulated to a healthy and natural action, then the backache and general feeling of depression left me.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McIlhenn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

STORIES OF CORRIGAN

The Archbishop's Characteristics Interestingly Depicted.

PLEASEING INSTANCE OF HIS TACT

How the Famous Catholic Prelate Placed a Guest of Different Faith at His Ease—Amusing Incident on a Railway Train Bound Out From Newark.

Here are some interesting anecdotes of Archbishop Corrigan of New York: The famous prelate never more fully displayed the charming tact which, aside from his other attainments, made him so wide a popularity than at a reception of the Catholic club in New York city.

The guests had pressed forward in a long line to be introduced and kiss the archiepiscopal ring, but a wife presented herself alone, says the New York World. Smiling in an embarrassed way, she explained that her husband, she thought, stood in awe of his grace. But his grace made no such mistake. Wife and husband were of different faith. He grasped the situation in a moment, and a humorous light came into his eyes.

Whispering to the priest at his side, he expressed his desire to have the man presented. There was no alternative. The recalcitrant approached. The archbishop extended both hands, firmly caught the right hand of his unwilling guest and, holding it to his breast, made it impossible for him to kneel during their short conversation.

Sometimes the occasion arose where the archbishop was compelled, in a more or less public way, to reveal some of his literary accomplishments. Such took place some time ago when he was in Europe, says Holland in the Philadelphia Press.

It is an anecdote which his then secretary, McDonnell, now bishop of Brooklyn, who was present at the time of the incident, tells with much amusement. The archbishop had entered a compartment of a railway train bound out from Newark. In the compartment were two Italian officers and a third gentleman whose nationality was not apparent at first. For some time the Italians chatted with the archbishop in their native tongue, apparently not realizing that Italian was not also the native tongue of the archbishop.

Something occurred which led the other gentleman to speak, he addressing the archbishop in French, and he received a reply in that language from the archbishop. Something went wrong about the window, and this gentleman then spoke in English about it, addressing his remark to the archbishop, who replied in English.

The conversation was continued between them, and the stranger at last said that he understood the American archbishop Corrigan had been in Munich, adding that he would have been greatly delighted had he been able to meet him, having taken great interest in the career of Archbishop Corrigan.

The countenance of the archbishop was imperturbable. Then the stranger, doubtless perceiving from his dress that the archbishop was a clergyman of the Catholic church, asked him if he knew whether Archbishop Corrigan had left Munich, and to this question the archbishop replied very quietly, "Yes; I believe he has gone." The stranger then said that he was an American and, asking the archbishop his nationality, was told in reply, "I am an American too."

Soon after that the stranger, being about to leave the train, asked the archbishop if he would not exchange cards with him. His card revealed that he was a captain in the United States army. He did not look at the archbishop's card until as the train was just starting, but he must have discovered a moment later that his wish had been gratified and that he had not only seen the American archbishop, but had been in conversation with him.

Archbishop Michael Augustine Corrigan was born in Newark, N. J., on Aug. 14, 1840. His parents came to the United States from Limerick, Ireland, settling in Newark. The father prospered and succeeded in his aim to give his children the best education that could be had. After completing the courses in the lower schools and then the higher ones the young man was sent to St. Mary's college, in Emmitsburg, Md., where his career as a student is still held up to the present classes as an example of what a man can accomplish if he sets his mind on his studies.

Archbishop Corrigan succeeded to the see of New York in October, 1885, when Cardinal McCloskey died.

Pingpong Favors.

Souvenirs for pingpong parties, according to the New York Commercial Advertiser, are to be had at the confectioners' shops already, and the makers of cotton favors are racking their brains for ideas that will suggest the game that has almost eclipsed bridge and bids fair to cast even golf into the shade. The pingpong candy boxes are in the form of pingpong bats or rackets (call them lats if you would be English, you know) and have a small rubber ball fastened to the top. The handle is tied with ribbon, and the box holds about half a pound of sweetmeats.

Boer Subjects of the Kaiser.

After the war broke out 150 Boers trekked into German Southwest Africa, where they have since become naturalized subjects of the Kaiser. They are now serving their time as German soldiers.

THE TROUTING SEASON.

Now to the brooks And faroff nooks The fishermen are going, Each feeling sure That he'll secure Some beauties well worth showing.

The trudge is long, But legs are strong, And, though there's frequent stumbling, The fishermen Push on again, And never think of grumbling.

At last they look Upon the brook That's just the place for troutling; The poles are fixed, The lines unrolled, And luck not one is doubting.

They decorate With tempting bait The hooks with which they're fishing; Then here and there With greatest care The lines are soon sent swishing.

They swish and swish, But wary fish Is to the surface rising; They try and try, And then they sigh, O'er failure so surprising.

To other brooks And other nooks Their toilsome way they're wending, But not a trout Can they yank out, Though oft the lines they're sending.

They fish away Till end of day, And then they're homeward going; They try to grin While yawns they spin, But not one trout they're showing.

—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

HAVE WOMEN INTUITION?

One Writer Says They Have Never Shown It in Literature.

Literature is the final expression of human thought. If women can lay claim to a special faculty of intuition, why do they not manifest it in their writings? Intuition, if it means anything, means the faculty that gets down to the germ of actions and characteristics and focuses external traits into a central, verity recognizable to the general public. Now, there are more female writers than male. No woman poet has ever written an inevitable line, a line that dashes spontaneously out of the unknown and casts an illuminating light upon the abyss. Woman has added practically nothing to our stock of familiar quotations. Take down your Bartlett or your anthology, and you may be surprised to find that from Mrs. Browning to Mrs. Meynell women have never coined a phrase which has passed into the common currency of speech. Mrs. Browning has indeed written fine lines, but nothing of hers can be said to have become a household word.

Nor has any woman novelist created any character that is generally recognized as typical. George Eliot has come closest with her Tito Melema and Mrs. Poyser. You would appeal only to the educated few if you described a person as a Tito or a Poyser. But call a man a Don Quixote, a Micawber, a Dogberry, a Falstaff, a Colonel Newcome, a Bilfil, a Parson Adams or Bob Acres, call a woman a Mrs. Malaprop, a Becky Sharp, a Beatrice, a Diana Vernon, a Meg Merrilies, and even the illiterate will mentally classify the individual as you wish him or her to be classified.

"Ah, but," you say, "in real life women are the true intuitives. They size up a man or a woman at a glance. They are never mistaken when they trust to their instincts."

I can only testify to my own experience. I have not found that women's snap judgments of character are imbued with any special verity. They form likes or dislikes quicker than a man does because they are quicker on the trigger of conjecture. They can only be one of two things, right or wrong. If time proves that they are right, as they must be in 50 per cent of cases, the right guess is remembered and treasured up by the slower minded man as an extraordinary instance of intuition. The wrong guess is forgotten.—William S. Walsh in Era.

To Save Tempers and Collars.

"You button your collar the wrong way," said the salesman as he was selling neckwear to a customer.
 "How is that?"
 "You have buttoned the right side last. Now, when you go to take it off you will have to tug at the end of the collar and crumple it, because you can't get a proper hold of it, but if you had the left end on top you could get it off easily, then loosen the collar behind, and the right end could be easily detached. That's why men have so much trouble taking off well laundered collars. Remember to fasten the right side first and then the left, and you will save your collars and your temper."

"I never supposed there was a right and a wrong way of putting on collars."
 "Try both ways and you will see."—New York Times.

Astronomical Solutions.

Though 300 years have elapsed since the death of Tycho Brahe, it appears that we are in many lines almost as far from the ultimate goal as when he began the great work of exploring the skies before the days of Kepler, when all Europe was slumbering in intellectual darkness. The science of the stars indeed has been refined and perfected in an unparalleled degree and infinitely extended in all directions, but with the bounds of darkness pushed back step by step the goal is not and never will be in sight. An infinity of objects and causes and an endless variety of phenomena are yet to be explored, and the work of the mind is rather a process of development to the perfect understanding of a simple mathematical problem.—Atlantic Monthly.

She Got a Thrifty Husband.

Mrs. Smith—I reckon our Jane has got a first rate husband.
 Mrs. Brown—Well, you ought to be thankful.
 Mrs. Smith—I hope I am, Gusty. Of course he isn't too good to look at, and he ain't oversmart, but there's one thing, and that is he's saving. Why, the very first day after the marriage he told Jane she'd better let him take the engagement ring back and get the money returned. He said there was no longer any use for her to wear it now that she was married.—Boston Transcript.

Out of Place.

Grocer—What have you been doing in the cellar so long?
 Grocer's Apprentice—I have been cleaning out the sirup measure. It was so choked up that it didn't hold more'n half a quart.
 Grocer—Oh, that's what you've been doing? Well, you take your bat and go home and tell your father to put you into the tract distributing business. You ain't fitted for the grocery trade.—London Answers.

WRECKED BY A WHALE

Remarkable Adventures of the Kathleen's Crew.

ALL SAVED, INCLUDING A PARROT

Mate Tells How a Big Bull Whale Charged and Sank the Bark in Midocan—One-fourth of the Party
Lived For Eleven Days in Open Boat.

Hobart R. Reynolds, mate of the whaling bark Kathleen, wrecked by a whale a thousand miles east of Barbados on March 17, tells a thrilling story of the event, which compelled the crew to take to boats to be picked up later by three different vessels, landing the sailors recently in New York city and in Philadelphia, says the New York Evening World. Three hundred whales were sighted on St. Patrick's day, and all hands except Captain Jenkins, his wife, the stewards and the cabin boy started in pursuit. Four boats were soon fast to the monsters.
The first boat, under command of Chief Bowman Manuel de Viana, towed its whale alongside the Kathleen and made fast. Then a bull whale was seen a mile away, and the boat went in pu-suit.

"The bull was soon reached, and a harpoon was planted in its head," says Mate Reynolds. "The animal sounded, but not very deep, and then started straight for the Kathleen. The bull traveled so fast that the line, singing through the groove, set the bow of the whaleboat on fire. At full speed the maddened whale charged into the Kathleen on the starboard side. The whole side of the bark was crushed in, and she began to fill.

"V. I. chopped the line, and his men pulled for the side. Meanwhile the captain, steward and cabin boy had hurriedly tossed some biscuit and a breaker of water on deck, while Mrs. Jenkins fetched her parrot, which had sailed with her for eight years. As Viana's boat came alongside the woman,
the captain, parrot, steward and boy had just time to drop in the provisions and themselves before the Kathleen, with the dead bull made fast to her port bulwark, sank.

"The first that I personally knew that anything had happened was when, towing my catch in the darkness, I sighted a boat under sail and was hailed from it.

"Is that you, Reynolds? 'Yes, sir.'
'Are you fast?' 'Yes, sir.' 'Cut loose.'
The Kathleen has been sunk. This is Captain Jenkins."

"The captain picked up Murray and Nichols, the fourth mate, both of whom soon came up, and all four boats were in a bunch. First the people were so distributed that there were ten souls in each boat. In the captain's boat there were eight men, Captain and Mrs.
Jenkins and the parrot.

"The captain gave each boat twenty pounds of hard tack and four and a half gallons of water in open buckets.
When daylight came, there was not a sail or a boat in sight of us. I tried to drink some of the water. It was salty.
A breeze springing up in the night had dashed the spray over the gunwale and made the fresh water brackish.

"I set a course west by north, Barbados, bearing 850 miles, as near as I could judge, in that direction. We started away on that course and after sailing half a mile overhauled another boat, which proved to be the captain's.
He divided with me what fresh water he had left. The two of us jogged along in each other's company until 9 a. m.,
when the captain sighted a smoke,
which proved to be that of the collier
Borderer from Baltimore for Coronei, Chile. She took us aboard.

"I have got two more boats drifting around here," said Captain Jenkins. "All right," said Captain Dalton. "I'll look for them."

"He picked up the third boat after a little, but although the Borderer circled around in widening circles for forty miles she could not find Viana, and we went on to Pernambuco."

"I lost the rest of the boats," said Viana. "because I had agreed with Captain Jenkins to exchange signal flashes. Once in the night I saw the captain's flash and thought I was failing behind. I then cracked on so fast that I outsailed the fleet and, having only eighteen pounds of bread and four and one-half gallons of water, concluded I had no time to waste. So I crowded on for Barbados eleven nights and days.

"Every morning and night I served to each man about a tablespoonful of water and half a biscuit. It was hot at the last, and we had continually to soak one another with sea water. It was good weather, with the exception of the last five days, into Dominica."

The Kathleen was an old boat, having been built in Baltimore in 1844.

Congress For the Blind.
In spite of the labor riots and preparations for a new constitution, scientific circles in Brussels are pushing forward their plans for an international congress for the amelioration of the condition of the blind which will meet at the Palais des Academies, Brussels, from the 6th to the 10th of August and will be under the patronage of King Leopold, says the New York Times. The improvement of the various methods of teaching the blind and the question of stenography for the blind are among the questions to be considered at the conference.

England's Favorite State Day.
Evidently Friday is to be the great day in England for state events. The first court was held on Friday, the king's birthday is to be celebrated on Friday, and the coronation procession is to be on Friday.

Blood Wine Can be Sampled at Drug Stores Without Cost.

Remarkably Popular Remedy Commends Itself to Prominent Citizens.

In this age of competition it is well to be able to discriminate between the good and the bad of everything. It does not do to judge too much by appearances, for everything that glitters is not necessarily gold, or even silver, but in a great many instances simply old tin, polished up. It is hard to be mistaken when one first has an opportunity to make a thorough investigation and sample an article before buying. This is the case with the famous Daufelin Co. of Worcester, Mass., have placed upon the market their celebrated French medical compound, "Blood Wine," and their earnest request is that everyone in ill health, to whose case their remedy is suited, shall take advantage of the privilege and satisfy himself that there are no misrepresentations, no extravagant promises, no misleading quotations and no false testimonials. The Daufelin people enjoy the respect and friendship of Massachusetts citizens, and it is their desire to push this feeling of confidence and esteem to the four corners of the globe. Consequently "Blood Wine" bears the imprint of honor throughout.

In order that everyone may know exactly what he is buying and know just what to expect from every bottle of "Blood Wine," it is sold to every druggist with the understanding that he shall provide everyone calling, with a free sample. This enables you to test and investigate at home at home the workings of this remedy.

"Blood Wine" cures disease by beginning at the very foundation of the trouble. It undermines disease as readily as disease overcomes the normal conditions of the system. To cure any kind of disease it is necessary to commence on the vital fluid of the body—the blood. Any physician will tell you that the mortal never lived into whose flesh the germs of disease could creep when healthy blood flowed through the veins. Sores on the body, pimples and blotches are produced in the same way that sores on the lungs or in the kidneys or any other part of the body are brought on. What is consumption? Nothing but a sore, a pus-emitting, discharging sore, or mass of sores, which if you could see would remind you of any kind of disgusting sores. What causes it and what will cure it? The blood.

An impoverished, unhealthy corpulent blood produces all the ills that flesh is heir to. A rich, thick, healthy, active blood will cure them.

"That disease in the family has been handed down from generation to generation—it's in the blood," you hear people say and it is true.

If you don't rid yourself of a disease, you surely do hand it down to your children and grandchildren. "Blood Wine" has a wonderful medicinal characteristic.

When you take it, it seems to pass immediately from the stomach to the blood. It mingles all through the veins and into the most remote parts of the body. It searches out disease and heals a sore no matter whether outside or inside. It cures coughs, colds and consumption (excepting when the latter is in the most advanced stage). It cures kidney troubles. It puts them in a healthy condition, thus enabling them to do their work. It takes the pains out of your back, the lameness from your sides and feet. It cures stomach troubles and indigestion. When a person has difficulty in retaining the food, when he has nausea and vomiting after meals, when the bowels become sluggish and move only spasmodically, then unsatisfactorily, and the mouth is sticky, the saliva thick and the breath bad, then is the time to take "Blood Wine" and receive almost instantaneous results. Women who need strength, who find difficulty in doing their housework, who feel all dragged out, whose cheeks are colorless and whose anemic appearance bespeaks the absence of the healthy blood, will find "Blood Wine" a positive, never-failing cure. Rheumatism, muscular and articular, all forms of neuralgia, shooting, darting pains, dull aches, that double up the fingers and twist and bulge the joints will be relieved by the prompt use of "Blood Wine." When you take this remedy you get right at the roots of the evil and become cured to stay cured. Probably no medicine ever sold has had as many enthusiastic admirers as "Blood Wine."

We ask you to write to anyone of them, make a personal investigation, ascertain for yourself that all said about "Blood Wine" is true.

"I find 'Blood Wine' a most remarkable medicine. It has cured me of a serious attack of nervous prostration that I thought would end my life and it has made me a strong healthy woman."—Mrs. A. B. Horton, Providence, R. I.

Anyone can take "Blood Wine." It's just as pleasant and palatable as a summer drink. No one would ever know from its innocent taste that it was such a powerfully aggressive opponent of disease. It contains no wine, no injurious drugs or opiates.

"It is a never failing remedy for lung troubles, coughs, colds and catarrh I can truthfully say that 'Blood Wine' is the most reliable medicine I have ever tried. I say 'never failing' because I have yet to find the first case that it hasn't benefited."—B. A. Andrews, M. D., Beachmont, Boston, Mass.

"Blood Wine" costs fifty cents a bottle, but you can sample it free of charge at

MOROS A PERILOUS FOE

Savages of Mindanao Promise Fierce Resistance.

NOTED FOR VALOR AND FEROCITY

Our New Enemy in the Philippines. Numbering a Half Million, Said to Be Worse to Fight Than Natives of Luzon and Samar—Have Plenty of Bolas.

It is because of the grave consequences certain to ensue that the administration at Washington is embarking with such great reluctance upon war with the Moros of the island of Mindanao, says the New York Herald. Half a million in numbers, noted for their bravery and ferocity and imbued with the fanaticism and fatalism of the Mohammedan, this people will be a foe that, it is said, will prove far more difficult to conquer than the natives of Luzon and Samar.

Under the policy adopted by the late President McKinley, the American authorities in the Philippines acted in the most conciliatory manner toward the Moros. This policy was fruitful of peace until recently, when Major General Chaffee reported to the war department that the Moros had murdered several American soldiers. Demands for the surrender of the murderers were met by refusal from the datos, or chiefs. In the hope of effecting a settlement General Chaffee himself visited Mindanao, but the datos declined to meet him.

Reports received by the war department regarding the armament of the Moros are conflicting. Some officers have declared that the people are provided with a large number of guns and considerable ammunition; others say they have few rifles. All agree, however, that they have plenty of bolas made of steel brought from Borneo. Major O. J. Sweet, commanding the Twenty-third infantry, informed the military governor of the Philippine Islands that "it was reported that there were Krug rifles in the hands of the Moros of the island of Jolo. An investigation showed that they were all of the model later than any in the hands of the Twenty-third infantry and that they were all bought in Mindanao and brought to Jolo. There are four that I know of. They will all be recovered."

Major Sweet subsequently estimated that there were 7,000 guns in the island of Jolo alone. The Moros of Mindanao are believed to be equally well supplied. The Moros are fortunately divided into four different tribes, speaking different dialects, and it may be possible to prevent their co-operation. All, however, profess the Mohammedan religion, and this may induce them to act together against the Christian invader. The Koran requires the conversion of the Christian or, in the event of failure, his execution. Major General Chaffee in his report to the war department said that he believed a large majority of the datos were friendly. The troops, however, will enter the jurisdiction of the most powerful datus of Mindanao, a man known as Piang.

Brigadier General Kobbe, who was last year in command of the military department of Mindanao and Jolo, says: "The Moros of Jolo differ from those of Mindanao, speaking a different language. Their meeting ground is Malay. The Moros of Mindanao acknowledge no vassalage to the sultan of Jolo. The hereditary rights of the sultan of Mindanao have lapsed. Dato Man-Cl is reputed to be his heir or successor, but the claim amounts to nothing. He may regard it as important but it gives him little or no practical rights or authority. The only datus with whom the United States has any political concern are Mandi, in Zamboanga; Piang, Ali and Uto, in Cotabato. "It is difficult to segregate the territory occupied by Moros from that occupied by pagans and other tribes. The lake Moros have few rifles, as the sale of arms and ammunition to them is prohibited. Captain Hagdon, who has visited the lake, described the country as being exceedingly rich, populous and well cultivated. Some gunboats were taken up and sunk in the lake by the Spaniards. The soldiers have had no trouble with the natives, but there would be trouble if the whites entered the country in any considerable number, especially with the lake Moros."

The sultan of Mindanao is one Mang-igin, but all the Moros do not acknowledge his sovereignty. The Philippines commission, which visited Mindanao, interrogated a datus named Mandi, professedly friendly to the Americans, in regard to the lake Moros. He said the lake Lanao region was thickly settled and comparatively well cultivated. In 1896 the Spaniards attempted to invade this territory. An expedition went from Iligan to Lanao, a railroad was built from Iligan to Lanao, and three small gunboats were transferred to the inland body of water. At that time the Moros were indifferently armed, but they fought vigorously, firing stones as projectiles. The Spaniards killed only a few Moros.

Major General Chaffee is gathering additional troops in Mindanao in order to suppress the Moros. Colonel Baldwin, who will have immediate command of the punitive expedition, will use every effort to maintain friendly relations with all natives not directly involved in the murder of the Americans, but the authorities are fearful that the appearance of American troops will lead to the belief that an attack is to be made upon the whole people and that this will lead to a war in which the Moros will side together against the Americans.

GRAINS AND NUTS.

Their Combination Into a New Delicious Food

Wheat contains the albumen, gluten and phosphates needed by the human system, while in nuts the fat and tissue building elements are found. These two products, direct from the great storehouse of nature, when scientifically combined, produce a food, which meets all the demands of the system for nutrition.

Wheat, oatmeal, and other cereals, abounding in starch, are very hard to digest, unless cooked five hours while nuts, by reason of their oily nature and our inability to properly masticate them, are very hard of assimilation.

A food expert, who has been experimenting on combining wheat and nuts into a digestible food, has discovered a new and unique process.

The wheat is exposed to intense heat for several hours, which takes it through the first and hardest stages of digestion. The oil is extracted from the nuts and emulsified, a process which makes it easy of assimilation by the stomach, and places it in condition to make fat and tissue as intended by nature.

This new food is called Malt N. It has a delicious nutty flavor and contains four times the nutritive properties of beef. Sold by grocers everywhere. Made by American Pure Food Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

UTICA NOTES.

More Developments in the New Gas Field—Chas Harris' Remains Arrive from Philippines.

(Utica Herald.)

Drilling has been resumed at the gas well on William Hall's farm after the workmen had been held at bay for more than a week by a tremendous flow of "pocket" gas.

A week ago Saturday at a depth of less than 750 feet gas was struck in a "pocket". It escaped with a roar that could be heard on all the neighboring farms. It was estimated at about 2,000,000 feet a day. The drillers expected the gas to exhaust itself in a few hours, but to their surprise it kept up its record for more than a week, and even then necessitated putting in of a blow pipe to carry it aside before the work could be resumed at the rig. The hole will be pushed down to the customary 2200 odd feet. The well is between the Stinson and Fry wells and is four miles southwest of Utica.

C S Hall of Utica has leased the stables and race track at Hiawatha park for the coming season. Commencing on June 1 there will be miniature races each afternoon by some of the best horses in the state.

The remains of Captain Harris, who was killed in the Philippines two years ago in April, have been brought to America and are now en route from San Francisco to Utica. It is expected that they will reach this place Thursday or Friday. It has been arranged to hold funeral services at the home of Miss Mary Harris next Monday afternoon at half past one o'clock, Rev. Albert Dunlap of Columbus officiating. Interment will be in the family lot in the Utica cemetery.

Work is to begin on the new Baptist church at Brandon. The old church has been moved to one side and will be used for services during the building.

The Logan gas company has leased a piece of land in Mt Vernon city. It is the Will Grant lot on North Mulberry street just south of the Trimble grove.

Work has been commenced at fixing for a gas well on the McDaniel farm between Utica and Homer. Drilling is progressing, on the Jeff, Connor farm and the Pierson farm.

WEBB-ORR

Wedding Takes Place Thursday Evening in Kentucky—Mrs. Orr Left for Paducah Wednesday

Mrs. Francis Graves Orr left Wednesday night for Paducah, Ky., where she will arrive this evening, and will immediately be married to Mr. Albert R. Webb, son of Mr. George P. Webb, of this city, who is now manager of the Armour interests in Paducah.

The bride-to-be is the youngest daughter of Mrs. William Graves and is a young woman of culture and refinement, who is known and highly esteemed by a large circle of friends in Newark, who wish her the joy and happiness which she merits in such large measure.

"Ab" Webb's friends embrace the entire circle of his acquaintanceship, for to know him is to observe and admire in him those qualities of an honorable and ideal manhood, which he possesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb will make their future home in Paducah.

Big Improvement Made.

Mitchell, Vanatta & Co., the enterprising East Side clothiers, have been making some extensive improvements to their big store on the East Side of the Public Square. The room has been extended back some fifty feet, and it is now one hundred and fifty feet in depth, making it one of the finest store rooms in the city. This move has been made necessary by largely increased business of this popular firm. They have already greatly added to their stock of goods, and now have all the latest, up-to-date styles of clothing in the market.

Case Was Ignored.

The case of The State of Ohio vs. W. H. Sheppard, official game warden, Licking county, was ignored by the April term grand jury. Sheppard had been bound over to the grand jury in March last by Mayor Atherton, a warrant having been sworn out by Wm. Canady of Clay Lick station for the arrest of Sheppard, charging him with assault while arresting Harvey Canady, charged with killing game out of season. The grand jury dismissed the case against Sheppard, and ignored the charge.

MONEY HOT TEMPERED.

Previous Altercations in Which the Senator Has Figured Recalled.

The fracas in which Senator Money of Mississippi figured the other morning at Washington recalls at the capital among those who are discussing it the other occasions on which he has exhibited his hot temper, says the New York Evening Post. Several years ago in the house committee on naval affairs he got into an altercation with Mr. Hall of Missouri, also a Democrat, in which it was alleged that Money gave him the lie. Hall threw an ink stand, which struck Money on the head with considerable force, necessitating his being taken into another committee room for repairs.

On another occasion he came near exchanging blows with Senator Wellington over the latter's allegations to the effect that the senators who went to Cuba to investigate conditions there were hired to do so by the New York Journal. As Money was one of the Hearst party, he asked Wellington to specify what he meant, with results that a challenge was offered on the floor of the senate.

Mr. Money is sixty-two years old and has been in public life at Washington, with slight interruptions, since 1877.

SONGSTER FROM CUBA.

Bright Plumaged Tanager Is a Rival For the Canary.

Army officers returning from Cuba have introduced a new variety of cage bird in the United States that is becoming quite the rage, says the Washington Post. This new cage bird is the "tanager," a curious little fellow, smaller than the canary, a fairly good songster and a bird of very brilliant plumage. The male is all the colors of the rainbow—indigo blue, scarlet, bright yellow, green, purple, black and white—while the plumage of the female runs through several shades of green, olive, yellow, buff, brown and black.

The first consignment of these birds, that for a century past have remained popular as cage birds among the Spaniards and Cubans, reached Washington a few days ago and found a ready sale. The bird is a native of Cuba and is not found outside that island.

Curry a Green Lined Parasol.

It has been a fad for the last few years for girls to be quite regardless of their complexions during the summer, but the girl who is wise will take my advice and carry a parasol, and for the greatest comfort and to prevent all strain and glare to her eyes let her have a dark green lining to it. This lining will not affect in any way the outside covering or the appearance of her parasol.—Mrs. Ralston in Ladies' Home Journal.

A DROLL CHARACTER

"COUNSELOR" NOLAN WAS A WIT OF THE NEW YORK BAR.

Some of the Quaint Sayings of This Picturesque Legal Light, Who For Years Kept Gotham's Judges and Lawyers Laughing.

In a book entitled "The Barrister" Charles Frederick Stansbury has brought together the best of the anecdotes of Tom Nolan, who was known popularly among members of the New York bar as "Counselor Nolan." For many years the counselor kept judges and lawyers of New York laughing, and at political conventions he was one of the important, if not serious, attractions. The counselor was himself a general humorist. His drollery was individual. Some characteristic stories from Mr. Stansbury's collection are here set down:

At a political convention a friend asked Nolan:

"Isn't it strange, counselor, that your friend Croker, who is such a mighty power down your way, does not get a nice political job for himself?"

The barrister drew himself up, looking inquisitor over him from the corner of his eye, and then replied, with severity: "This is a peanut brain you have, Clancy, to ask me that. Is there any job he hasn't got?"

Judge Horace Russell told the following story: Nolan once had a client whose name was Mrs. Moriarity. After her case had been placed upon the calendar Mrs. Moriarity appeared every day in Nolan's office with her eleven witnesses. Finally the case reached the top of the calendar, and Nolan was asked to try it. The opposing counsel asked for a postponement. Nolan sought the postponement with great sequence, laying much stress upon the fact that Mrs. Moriarity had been put to enormous trouble and expense of coming every day to his office with her eleven witnesses. Judge Dugro, who was sitting, was not convinced apparently by Nolan's perfunctory oratory and granted the adjournment. Then the barrister arose.

"Your honor," said he, "has seen fit to grant a postponement of the case, and while I humbly submit to the ruling of the court, yet I would like to ask your honor to do me a personal favor."

"Certainly, counselor, with pleasure," replied Judge Dugro. "What is it?"

"Go you to my office," thundered the barrister, "and inform Mrs. Moriarity that this case has been postponed."

Witty and keen as Nolan was, he once in awhile got the worst of an encounter with a witness, as the following incident illustrates:

The plaintiff, Mr. Foley, was suing Mr. W. for damages sustained by carelessness of defendant in allowing his donkey to escape from his stable and trespass upon plaintiff's lawn. Foley is in the witness box.

Barrister Nolan (for defendant)—You say that Mr. W.'s animal caused all this injury to your property?

Foley—Yes, sir.

Barrister—Where did you first see this donkey?

Foley—Tied up in defendant's stable.

Barrister—Where did you next see him?

Foley—On me premises.

Barrister—How do you know it was the same donkey?

Foley (emphatically)—If I saw yez tied up in the stable, don't yez suppose I'd know yez when yez got loose?

The barrister excused Mr. Foley. It was in the old superior court before Judge David McAdam and a jury, and the barrister was trying a case on behalf of the plaintiff in a negligence suit against the Twenty-third street cross-town railroad, which was controlled by Jacob Sharp, who afterward was the name of "boodle aldermen" to the world. On rising to sum up on behalf of his client Nolan launched forth on an attack upon Sharp, who had in no manner appeared in the case. Raising his voice to a pitch that could be heard by citizens in the City Hall park, he concluded his peroration as follows:

"And who, gentlemen of the jury, is Jacob Sharp? I will tell you, gentlemen. He is a man so lost to all his sense of ethics and the rights of man for the sake of pithy prospect dividends he would run a railroad over your spine and make ties out of ribs!"

When the bar of the city of New York had a dinner at Delmonico's in honor of former Justice Abraham R. Lawrence on his retirement from the bench, one of the remarks Nolan made was:

There's a Recorder Smyth. He's a good judge, a fine judge, but he is this way man ought to go to prison 'least every man."

Nolan on one occasion was a candidate for a municipal office, and in the course of his canvass he asked a woman of his acquaintance if she would lend her influence in obtaining for him his husband's vote. "Sure, I will," said the woman. "Are we not ever so grateful to you ever since you put my husband off for stealing a gun?"

"No, no, my dear woman," cried the barrister, "not for stealing a gun, but the alleged stealing of a gun."

"I alleged he bothered," replied the woman. "Come up stairs and I'll show you the gun."

Once arguing a case in behalf of sailors who were sailors and while in the midst of an exhaustive display of legal scholarship Nolan was interrupted by the court:

"How comes it, counselor, that you possess such a vast knowledge of the law?"

"That I came over in a back?"

And Reflection.

It happens quite frequently that the same man has a son who is simply made.—Puck.

IT MATTERS NOT

How Sick You Are or How Many Physicians Have Failed to Help You

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy Will Cure You if a Cure is Possible

Doctors are not infallible and there are many instances where they have decided a case was hopeless and then the patients astonished everyone by getting well and the sole cause of their cure was Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. A case in point is that of James Lettuce of Canajoharie, N. Y., who writes:

"Some years ago I was attacked with pains in my back and side that were fearful in the extreme. I could not control my kidneys at all and what came from them was mucous and blood. I was in a terrible state and suffered intensely. The partner of Dr. Vandervor of Albany, N. Y., decided that an operation was all that would save me. I dreaded that and commenced to take Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I felt better almost instantly. When I had taken about two bottles, the flow from the bladder was much cleaner, and pain stopped, and I was saved from the surgeon's knife and am now well."

Dr. W. H. Morse, the famous physician of Westfield, N. J., has this to say of this great medicine:

"I have known it to cure chronic inflammation of the kidneys, where the attending physician pronounced the case incurable."

No form of kidney, liver, bladder or blood disease, or the distressing sickness common to women, can long withstand the great curative power of this famous specific. A small quantity of this wonderful medicine has more curative power than barrels of other remedies," says a prominent New York physician. Its record of cures has made it famous in medical circles everywhere.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is for sale at all druggists at $1 a bottle of 6 for $5—less than one cent a dose.

ditwit THE GREAT WESTERN.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly inflicting cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven, however, that it is a constitutional disease, and therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Dan Daub Who Made Denison's Ball Team Famous, Signs With Kansas City—College Games—Fun at Granville Today—Yesterday's Scores—General Sporting Gossip.

Wednesday's games in the National League and American League resulted as follows:

National League
At Philadelphia:	R H E
New York	6 10 2
Philadelphia	5 14 2
Batteries, Thielman and Bowerman, White and Jacklitsch Attendance, 1885
At Pittsburgh:	R H E
Pittsburgh	7 12 3
St. Louis	4 6 3
Batteries, Chesbro and O'Connor; Yerkes and Nichols Attendance 3200

American League
At Chicago	R H E
Chicago	4 7 0
Cleveland	0 6 1
Batteries, Griffith and Sullivan, Joss and Beemis Attendance 1950
At Washington:	R H E
Washington	7 11 3

At St. Louis:
St. Louis	1 6 5
Detroit	0 2 1
Batteries, Harper and Sugden; Stevens and McGuire Attendance 1500

Columbus Attendance. Columbus in the American Association won from St Paul Wednesday, 8 to 6. Bailey weakened in the seventh and was batted hard, but Columbus had already won the game. He was relieved by Wagner. The attendance, 1918, was larger than at Philadelphia or Chicago, and 700 greater than at Louisville and Indianapolis, of the same organization, combined. This goes to show that a winning club is a paying investment in Columbus, and this is the kind of an aggregation that Jack Grim has in the Buckeye capital. The team is out to win at all stages, and play fast ball all the time.

About Enoch Summers. Zanesville shut out the Lazarus Victors of Columbus, 5 to 0 Wednesday at Zanesville. Somers was umpire, and of course this could be none other than the perennial Enoch, who was the hero of many a diamond battle in Newark, and went to his base ball grave while playing here. In the role of umpire Enoch would be a success and moral force which characterized his handling the players of the Newark team, in the Peach Pie League, some years ago. This is not a paid ad. for Enoch as he does not need work as an umpire or anything else.

A number from Newark attended the game between the Seniors and Faculty of Denison University at Granville today. The faculty team is made up of old base ball players and it is a matter of history that they usually beat the class teams.

Ohio State University will play Indiana at University field in Columbus tomorrow. Indiana plays Ohio Wesleyan today, and Captain Collins of O. S. U. attended the game. O. S. U. beat Wesleyan 8 to 2 two weeks ago.

Manager McGraw will give Pitcher Robert B. Lawson of the University of Maryland, a trial. Lawson signed with the Boston National League team last year and pitched several games for them, and also played the outfield. He was released the last of July, and finished the season out with the Woonsocket R. I. team as pitcher.

Manager Gear of Kansas City, has signed pitchers 'Gus Weyhing the old leaguer, and Dan Daub, formerly of the Denison University team. They will report to him this week in Columbus, where Kansas City opened a four game series this afternoon. Daub has been coaching the team of Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware.

John L. Sullivan is anxious to go to London and spar some of the old timers during coronation week.

New York won another extra inning battle Wednesday, defeating Philadelphia, 6 to 5 in twelve innings.

The St. Louis Americans have a Donahue battery, and the St. Louis Nationals an O'Neil battery.

Indianapolis may be dropped from the American Association if the poor attendance continues, and Sunday ball cannot be played.

Mike Schreck, the Cincinnati boxer, may take Joe Walcott's place and go to England to box Tommy West, during the Coronation carnival.

Clark Griffith is the same artistic and effective pitcher as of old. Cleveland's six hits Wednesday were secured off him in widely scattered innings.

John A. Drake the Chicago turfman, at the Huffman House in New York City, offered to toss a coin with Jake Fields, the stock broker for $250,000 a side. Fields would not bet.

The Ohio State Journal calls the St. Paul team "Rowdy Saints," and from their actions Wednesday, the name is applicable. The Columbus team played good ball and won.

The Columbus management has decided not to post the scores of foreign games, as the demand for advertising space on the fences is so great that no room is left for a bulletin board.

Young Joss of Cleveland, pitched another fine game Wednesday, but the veteran, Griffith, was opposed to him, and he lost as his team could not hit Manager Clark.

Jack Harper of the St. Louis, American, only allowed Detroit 20 scattered hits Wednesday, and of course his team won, but by the narrow margin 1 to 0, as Siever was also in fine form.

Charley Witmer, the Cincinnati wrestler, won two out of three falls, mixed Gruesco-Roman and catch-as-catch-can, from Hjalmer Lundrin, at Worcester, Mass., Wednesday night.

Word comes from Kid Carters training quarters at Norwood Inn, near Cincinnati, that he is in excellent shape and ready for the call of time, in his fight with Marvin Hart at Louisville, Saturday night.

Chesbro held St. Louis safe until the ninth yesterday when he eased up and the Cardinals made two runs. The Pirates had the game won, however.

Shocard, "the human grasshopper" received $1000 advance money from the Baltimore club. He jumped back and forth between Baltimore and Brooklyn four times.

About $75,000 were distributed in stakes and purses among the horsemen during the 21 days' racing at Memphis. Of this amount C C Bennett won the most, having $10,800 to his credit.

Your Blood in May Must Produce True Vitality or Disease

PAINE'S Celery Compound

Expels All Winter Impurities and Poisons from the Blood and Builds Up the Entire System.

An Astonishing Proof of Blood Cleansing and Restoration to Complete Health.

True health can only be maintained by keeping the body free of acid and sluggish blood and morbid waste matters. The blood that is pumped through the heart to all parts of the body, carries nourishment and health, or poison and the seeds of death.

Close confinement in badly ventilated offices, stores and workshops during winter months, has lowered the vitality of tens of thousands. Poisons and impurities have been implanted in the blood; these agents of death must be expelled if health would be maintained during the coming summer.

The month of May should be renovating and building up the body with the vast army of weak, debilitated, and broken down men, women, and young people.

If the work of purifying and vitalizing the blood be longer deferred, eruptions, blotches, sores, eczema, scrofula, erysipelas, and other dangers are sure to be your portion.

Paine's Celery Compound meets successfully at this season all unhealthy conditions of the blood. It is the only medicine that can guarantee perfect purification of the vital fluid; that can give true nutriment to the nerves and tissues; that can bestow new life, vigor, and strength for the enjoyment of summer and the prosecution of life's duties.

Mr. George Schmidt, 20 West Third street, Cincinnati, Ohio, briefly and forcibly writes regarding his rescue from a slow, but sure death; he says:

"Since infancy I have been bothered with impure blood and nervousness. I tried almost all known remedies and went to many physicians, but nothing seemed to do me any good until a druggist recommended Paine's Celery Compound. I used this great medicine, and before I had finished two bottles, I found relief. I am now using my sixth bottle and never felt better in my life. My nervousness is all gone and my skin clearer than ever it was."

ABSENCE OF GRAY HEADS.

A Stranger's Comments on the Members of the House.

"I visited the house of representatives the other day," remarked a stranger, "and I was impressed by one or two facts which interested me."

"In this, one of the two great legislative bodies of the United States, I expected to see a great many—the majority, in fact—of the members of venerable age. I could but observe the absence of gray heads among the representatives. In short, men of venerable aspect were so largely in the minority that I was at once struck with the fact. Most of the members appeared to be young men and men in or under the age of middle life. I pointed out many of the gentlemen on the floor of youthful appearance and asked the doorkeeper if they were really members of the house. He replied in all instances they were members and seemed surprised that I should ask the question."

"I consider this fact a striking illustration of the possibilities for the young man in American political life. As I am a foreigner and used to seeing graybeards in high legislative and executive positions on the continent the contrast was the more noticeable. I was also informed that the bill under debate had been before the house for several days, was bitterly contested and that much feeling existed on either side. The 'feeling' the doorkeeper referred to was not observable to me. If Americans consider the debates in their lower house to be 'animated,' they should see what a really 'animated debate' amounts to in the French chamber of deputies. They would experience a change of mind."

"I could also but remark upon the limited space in the galleries allotted to the general public, and I was informed that this space had been even more curtailed during a reconstruction of the interior of the chamber last summer. I supposed, of course, that the best part of the galleries would in this country be given over to the public. At every door but two I was refused admission except upon the production of a card or a personal identification that I was a member of the diplomatic corps or one of the official government family. In the space allotted to the public there were not over 100 seats, if that number. Of course the seating capacity of the galleries is not great, but the reserved space must take up over 90 per cent, while I thought the opposite rule would be found to be true."—Washington Star.

SOURCES OF KNOWLEDGE.

You May Learn Something From Everybody You Meet.

One of the most useful success habits one can form is that of learning something from everybody with whom he comes in contact. No information which can be acquired is too trivial to be ignored.

Constantly measure yourself with the men you meet. You will find that every one can teach you something which you did not know before and which, perhaps, you would never have a chance to learn again if you did not acquire it from him.

Daniel Webster once made a great hit in arguing a case before a jury by repeating a story which he afterward said he had not thought of since he heard it fourteen years before. But Webster was always picking up something for future use. His famous reply to Hayne, the greatest speech ever delivered on the American continent, was largely made up of little reserves which he had picked up here and there in his reading, from studying men and from observation.

Many a prominent novelist has collected material for his stories by making notes of his conversations with those he has met and by observation. Charles Dickens got a great deal of the matter for some of his novels in this way.

One young man will go to a lecture and after spending an hour listening to the helpful, inspiring words of some prominent man will leave the hall or lecture room without having derived any benefit from the address. Another young man will attend the same lecture with an ambition to learn some thing. He will drink in the speaker's sentences as if he were never to hear such words of encouragement and inspiration again. At the conclusion of the address he will determine that he will make more of his opportunities in the future; that he will read more, think more, study more, be more than he ever was before. Such a young man has a purpose and is determined to learn something from everything he comes in contact with and from everybody he talks to. The other has no ambition, does not throw himself into what he does, lets his mind wander hither and thither, so that he never wholly understands what people are saying and therefore never derives any benefit or information from those with whom he converses.—Orison Swett Marden in Success.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

Saturn's largest moon is 2,092 miles in diameter, slightly smaller than our own.

Jupiter is one and a half times larger than all the rest of the planets put together.

In size the sun equals 1,300,000 earths, but owing to its smaller density its weight equals only 300,000 earths.

Careful scientific investigations show that the average speed of the transmission of earthquake shocks is nearly 16,000 feet per second.

Zinc expands up to the melting point. A bar of laminated zinc six inches long will expand 1.100 of an inch in raising the temperature 100 degrees F.

The sun gives 600,000 times as much light as the full moon, 7,000,000,000 times as much as the brightest star in the sky and 36,000,000 times as much as all the combined stars of the heavens.

The latest theory in connection with drowning is that no water enters the lungs and that heat properly applied, with artificial respiration, will resuscitate persons who have been under water for an hour. This feat has been accomplished by the doctor who advances the theory.

Theology as He Understood It.

Passengers in an uptown car one afternoon last week were very much entertained and amused by a discussion of things spiritual by two colored passengers. As the debate waxed warmer the voices of the debaters grew louder until what was said was plainly audible to all in the car. After each had made a confession of faith and given his views of the means whereby mortal man could gain salvation one of the pair blurted out in a tone that implied that all his hope for the next world was embodied in the words:

"Well, sah, I b'lieve dat what's gwine to be is sho'ly gwine to be."

"Huh," granted his companion contemptuously. "den yo' b'lieves in premeditation."—Baltimore Sun.

The Railway Limit.

"And the railway company agrees to settle by paying me $5,000. does it?" said the man who had been injured. "How much of it do I get?"

"You get all of it," said the lawyer, "and you pay me what you please. It didn't take me five minutes to get a settlement out of them."

"MESSIAH OF NATIONS."

Riley's Poem on McKinley's Death Set to Music by Sousa.

Soon after the assassination of President McKinley James Whitcomb Riley wrote a poem, "The Messiah of Nations," and recently arrangements were made by Charles E. Wilson, private secretary to Governor Durbin of Indiana, with John Philip Sousa, the composer and musical director, that the poem be set to music. Director Sousa has notified the executive committee of the dedication ceremonies committee that his task has been accomplished, and "The Messiah of Nations" will be sung for the first time at the dedication of the soldiers' monument in Indianapolis May 15, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. It will be sung by a chorus of 150 voices, accompanied by brass instruments. The full text is as follows:

In the need that bows to thus,
America! America!
Shape a mighty song to us—
America! America!
Song to which a hundred years
Roar of wars and rain and tears
'Neath a world's triumphant cheers:
America! America!

Lift the trumpet to thy mouth,
America! America!
East and west and north and south—
America! America!
Call us round thy dashing shrine
Of the starry old ensign
New baptized in blood of thine,
America! America!

Dying eyes through gloom of mists,
America! America!
See the assassin's shadowed wists,
America! America!
Patient eyes that turn from all blackened
From all blackened
Still toward heaven's light—
America! America!

High o'erlooking sea and land,
America! America!
Trustfully with outstretched hand,
America! America!
Thou dost welcome to thy guest
Of thy freedom, peace and rest;
Every exile is thy guest—
America! America!

Thine a universal love,
America! America!
Thine the cross and the banner of
America! America!
Aid us, then, to sing
God hath builded from
The first nation of the
America! America!

AN INCENSE PARTY.

Odd Etiquette of an Interesting Japanese Function.

If you ever receive an invitation to a Japanese incense party, accept it promptly and thankfully. It has no counterpart in our own social system and is as merry and pleasant an affair as can be imagined. The people of the mikado's land have trained the nostrils for generations the same as we have trained the eye and ear, and they display a skill which at times is startling to a westerner. There is an odd etiquette to be followed in these social affairs. For the twenty-four hours preceding the party each guest must avoid the use of anything which can produce any odor whatever. Scented soaps, perfumes, odorous foods and even spices must be avoided. These prevent the user from smelling accurately and also interfere with the other members of the party.

When you dress, be careful to put on no garment that has been kept in the neighborhood of camphor wood, tobacco, bouquets, dried blossoms or scented powder. When you reach the house of your host, enter it as softly as you can and as slowly as possible. This is to prevent making a draft by the movement of your own body. Be equally leisurely in opening and closing doors, as a quick movement induces a sudden rush of air. In the drawing room the hostess burns a series of incenses, usually four or five in number. Each guest is allowed to take three sniffs of each incense and must then jot down its name and number upon a card. Each of the four or five incenses is burned two or three times, so that the number of cards will vary from eight to fifteen. At the end the cards are laid out on the table, and the hostess reads the names of the incenses employed, which are checked off upon the cards. The guest who has guessed the largest number receives a pretty prize, which is sometimes a silver or bronze incense burner, statuette or carving. Among the Japanese the average woman guesses correctly about six times in ten, while with the American women the ratio is three in ten.—New York Post.

HER LOST DIARY.

The Plaguy Thing Had All Her Dearest Secrets Recorded Too.

"Diary" fairly shrieked the pretty young lady, with flashing eyes, as she walked down the avenue with a companion. "Diary! Don't you say diary to me again. What do you know about it, Kate?"

"Nothing, only that you told me that you had commenced keeping a diary, as usual, and I supposed you had dropped it at the end of a month, as usual. I didn't mean to throw you into hysterics."

"Kate! don't you ever breathe a word of it, but I've lost that diary; dropped it somewhere on the street. And the plaguy thing has all my dearest secrets in it. I wrote just what I thought too it just seems me crazy. There it is in black and white that Lillian looks like a fright, that Hattie is turning green from jealousy, that Charley is just too sweet to live and that Fred hasn't sense enough to talk more than three minutes unless he rehearses in advance."

"Why don't you advertise and offer a reward?"

"Indeed, I won't. I never want to see the thing again. If any one returns it, I shall declare that it's a forgery from beginning to end. I'll never own up the longest day I live."

"What did you say about me, Edith?"

"Oh, I don't just remember, but something nice. You can depend on that, for you're my very dearest friend."

"I can help your memory. You wrote that I was the most inquisitive little minx in the city and that I thought it my special business to look after other people's business. Here's your diary. You left it at our house, and Tommy spelled out your estimate of me before I knew what he was doing. Good afternoon."

Then they looked at each other, both began to cry, fell into each other's arms and in five minutes were crying a mutual friend.—Kansas City Independent.

Sulphur and Silver.

A sailor in the custom house the other day took out of his pocket some silver coins that had a strange yellow hue, and a clerk said to him: "What makes your money such a funny color, Jack?" "Well," replied the mariner, "we just got in with a cargo of fuel oil. It's the oil that turned my money yellow. Fuel oil has that effect on every kind of metal. You ought to be on a fuel oil steamer some time. It would surprise you to see the cabin silverware, the kitchen tins and every blasted bit of metal on board all having the jaundiced look. There is sulphur in fuel oil, and it's this sulphur that does the yellowing. Nitric acid will bring back the original color again."—Philadelphia Record.

Outward and Visible Signs.

Ambitious Young Woman—Tell me honestly, do you think I ever will make a great actress?

Experienced Manager—Not unless you can subdue that bright and cheerful smile. Haven't you learned by observing the pictures of great actresses that they all wear a look of tragic and profound gloom?—Chicago Tribune.

Lucky For the Ancestors.

"It's a great thing to have a fine line of ancestors."
"Doubtless it is, and it's a mighty good thing, too, that some of these fine lines of ancestors couldn't look into the future and see their descendants."—Chicago Post.

Holds Up a Congressman.

"At the end of the campaign," writes Champ Clark, Missouri's brilliant congressman, "from overwork, nervous tension, loss of sleep and constant speaking I had about utterly collapsed. I seemed that all the organs in my body were out of order, but three bottles of Electric Bitters made me all right. It's the best all-around medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter." Overworked, run-down men and weak, sickly women gain splendid health and vitality from Electric Bitters. Try them. Only 50c. Guaranteed by Hall's drug store.

JUST A SMILE.

Dashes of Rollick From the Bright Sayings of Youngsters.

Tommy (aged six)—I wonder what makes our cat afraid of mice?
Bessie (aged five)—I guess it's cause she's a lady cat.

"Our baby has teeth," said little Margie, "and yours hasn't."
"He don't need any," replied little Nan. "We feed him soup out of a bottle."

Willie—You think your papa can do everything, but I'll bet he can't see with his eyes shut.

Harry—I don't know about that, but mamma says he talks in his sleep.

First Small Girl—I'm never going to speak to you again. Your papa keeps a saloon.

Second Small Girl—And I'm never going to speak to you again. I saw your papa going into my papa's saloon.

"Oh, mamma," exclaimed little Elmer as the cat with arched spine and elevated rudder strutted around the table, "do look at puss! She has eaten so much she can't shut her tail down."

Aunt Mary—Johnnie, isn't that your mother calling you?
Johnnie—Sure thing.

Aunt Mary—Then why don't you answer?
Johnnie—What's the use. Pa ain't at home.—Chicago News.

Commendable Serpents.

"I am of the opinion," wrote the honest intentioned poet to the editor of the magazine, "that I inclosed 2 cents more postage than was necessary with that spring poem I submitted to you last week. I drop you this note to assure you that I did not do so with the intention of affecting your decision in the matter. I trust that I am not so infected with the coarser motives of humanity as to attempt to bribe one who sits in judgment upon those things which should tend to uplift and benefit mankind."—Baltimore American.

The Fever.

An Atchison girl who got $50 a month and had an easy time of it caught the fever two years ago and chased a man. She had an athletic training, soon caught up with him and landed him. Now she does all her own housework, including washing and ironing, has twin babies and gets her board and clothes. Her name should be furnished all women seized with this man catching fever.—Atchison Globe.

Flattery.

Sue—Do you believe in hypnotism?
He—When you look at me I do."—Somerville Journal.

A Careful Opinion.

"Our party has a great future," said the political enthusiast.
"Well," answered the pessimist, "there isn't any doubt about its future being all right as to quantity, but I don't know about the quality."—Washington Star.

Contemporary.

Tess (after telling a joke)—Why don't you laugh? Don't you consider that funny?
Jess—Oh, my, that joke is old.
Tess—Is it really, dear? Of course you ought to know.—Philadelphia Press.

HORSES AND HORSEMEN.

May Queen, 2:21, has been bred to Silent Brook, 2:16 1/4.

The dam of Baron Waltzer, 2:19 1/4, has been bred to Heir-at-law, 2:05 1/4. Clem Beachy has bred Preference, by Expedition, 2:15 1/4, to The Bondsman.

Horsemen are wondering what John Dickerson is going to do with old Bessie Bonhill, 2:05 1/4.

Lottie Smart, 2:08, is not owned by a Denver real estate dealer. Frank Loomis will handle her for the grand circuit.

The first foal of the season at Maywood farm, Indianapolis, Ind., is by Rex American, 2:11 1/4, dam Emma Wilkes, 2:05 1/4.

That fast pacer Baron Waltzer, 2:19 1/4, by Baron Dillon, 2:12, has been sent to S. J. Fleming & Son of Terre Haute to be trained for the coming campaign.

Although it has been stated that M. E. McHenry would campaign the noted trotter Early Reaper, 2:09 1/4, this year, no definite arrangement has been made with any one.

A. C. Geers, Graceville, Minn., has bought through James Walker, Coldwater, Mich., from Frank Neely, Brooklyn, Mich., the pacing mare Brooklyn Belle, 2:14 1/4, for $1,500.

THE FASHIONS.

In belts there is a decided tendency toward wide effects at the back.

Shoulder length evening gloves in white and light shades are now laced instead of buttoned.

Lightweight rain coats are cut with a loose back and fitted front. Some have the fitted effect at both back and front.

The popularity of tan shoes for spring and summer wear seems to be assured, and those displayed are fine in cut and finish.

Fine black silk openwork stockings are worn with low shoes, and many new designs are to be found at the leading stores.

Hats made entirely of Irish lace sewed on wire frames are popular and effective. These are unlined and need only a little floral ornament to be ready for use.

Knitted corset covers of white silk are substituted for those of caubrie and other materials. These are of the finest texture and trimmed with lace.

Large belt buckles are the rule now, one of the latest novelties being four inches wide. It consists of a background of solid frosted gold, sprinkled with small stars of cut steel.—New York Tribune.

FACTS FROM FRANCE.

In French factories and workrooms women are paid from 25 to 60 cents a day.

Last year the courts of France received 9,650 requests for divorce, 85 per cent of which were granted.

Vaccination is now obligatory in France within the first year from birth and must be followed by revaccination at the ages of eleven and twenty-one.

The gold medal offered by the Paris council for the most numerous and best behaved family of children has been won by a couple named Gallez, parents of thirteen youngsters.

A society called La Ligue Contre la Mortalité Infantile has been founded in Paris which is intended to combat by every possible means the excessive and avoidable mortality of young children. The society will create or aid every work in France destined to this end.

The French postoffice estimates that no fewer than 98,000 letters were stolen last year from pillar boxes. Experiments are being made by fitting some of the boxes with steel teeth which prevent the extraction of letters in the hope of guarding against these thefts in the future.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

A very good fertilizer for house plants is coffee grounds.

It is usually best to set stakes by the side of the gladiolus plants and tie them up.

It is an advantage in gathering the fruit to have the trees with low spreading heads.

Dwarf pears and grapes are two fruits especially adapted to small places where little can be spared.

In growing fruit for market it is of great advantage to have varieties that will keep long and bear transportation well.

The greater portion of the roots of a grapevine grow near the surface, and for this reason the cultivation should be shallow. Fertilizers also should be applied near the surface.

The longer an orchard is kept in cultivation and crops taken off the greater becomes the necessity for liberal manuring. Apply it broadcast under trees at least as far as the branches extend.

PITH AND POINT.

How many people hate you without cause?

You have the right to act the fool, of course, but why insist upon it?

Would you unfairly injure another man to aid yourself? You can't afford it.

Offer an article for sale that other people want, and you will have no trouble in getting rich.

Probably no one can look up from his work and see a white hearse go by and return to his duties with the same serenity.

Neighbors are always willing to loan anything except butter. Every woman thinks her butter a little better than the butter paid back.—Atchison Globe.
